

Ben Blumenberg

Ben Blumenberg is an Eagle Scout and Vigil Honor Member of the Order of the Arrow. He enjoys the outdoors, which explains the fact that he was a camp director and summer camp staffer for 13 summers. He graduated from the University of Saint Mary with a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Ben started his career with the Boy Scouts of America in 2001 as a district executive in St. Louis, MO. He later served as a senior district executive and district director in St. Louis; and development director, program director, field director, and director of field service, in Belleville IL. While serving as director of field service, Ben spent nearly a year as the interim Scout Executive for the Lewis & Clark Council helping to orchestrate a successful merger with the Greater St. Louis Area Council.

As a professional with the BSA, Ben believes our most important function is to build strong volunteer relationships. He believes in a service and support model that empowers volunteers to lead at every level of the organization. He still adheres to his boyhood Troop motto "happy to be here and proud to serve".

Ben and his wife Emily, a Therapeutic Recreation Specialist have two children; a son Brayden who can't wait to become an Eagle Scout, and a daughter Abigail who wants to be part of every Scouting adventure "the boys" experience.
